

Computer System and Method With Internal Use of Network Switching

ABSTRACT

A computer system in which a network processor disposed between a central processing unit and supporting peripheral subsystems and among the peripheral subsystems handles addressing of memory space.